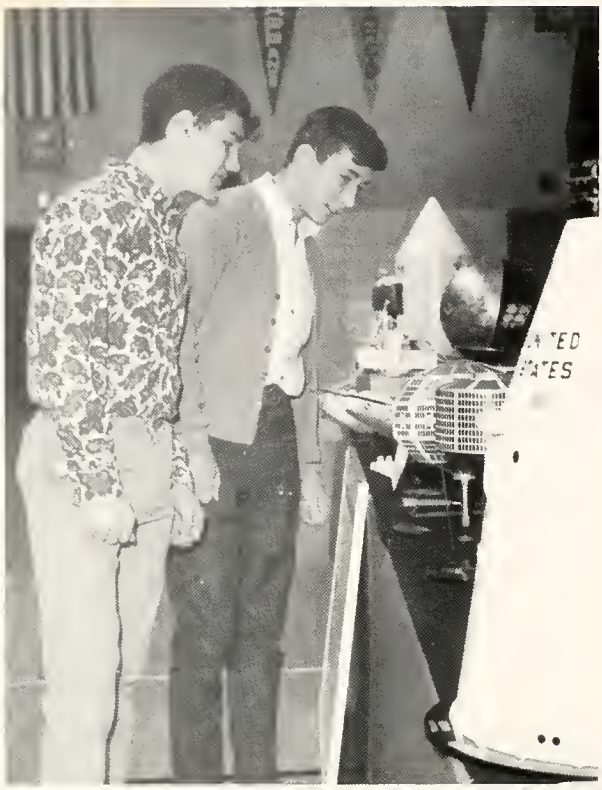
Youth— a Time for DISCOVERY



NHS students discover their world through the realities of science, people, beauty, power and understanding. An assembly program on NASA stimulates interest in scientific advancement. Students discover a sense of belonging by associating with other people. Beauty of art and nature surrounds them daily. An exciting sensation of power meets them behind the wheel of a car. They search to understand "the meaning in the meaning of words."

. . . Self-Discovery

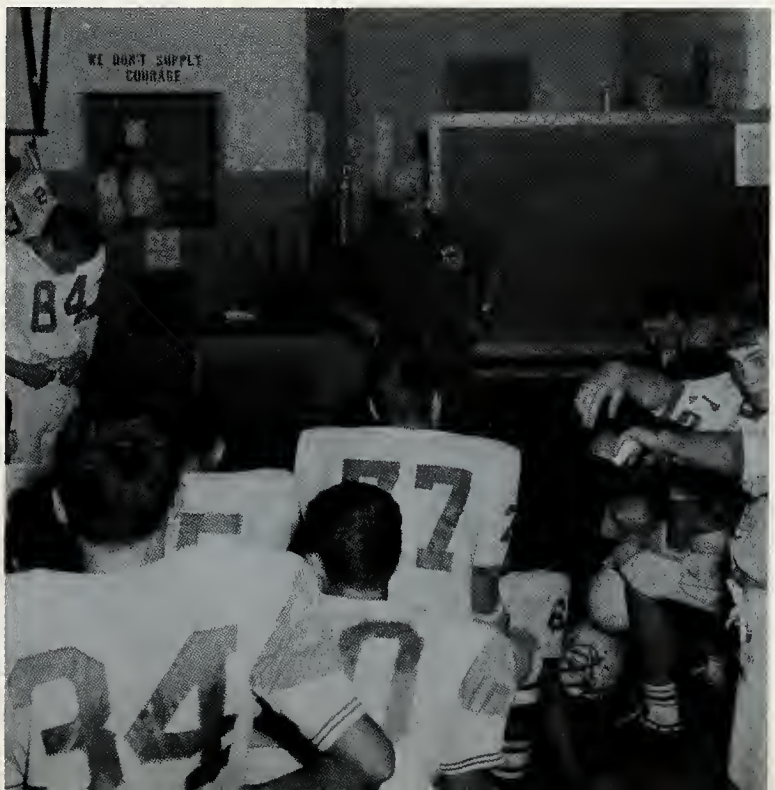
Youth is a time for self-discovery through experiences of friendship, achievement and development of talents. Students learn to know themselves through communication with others. Being able to talk with a special person may begin a lasting relationship. Displaying excellence in athletics, being crowned Jr. Miss or receiving a superior rating at contest gives one a feeling of accomplishment and self-satisfaction.



Discovery of FRIENDSHIPS

Unfolding Seasons Create Diversions

Seeking relief from summer heat . . . A bracing splash in cold water . . . A walk through an open air art gallery.

Feeling nostalgic . . . Seeing smoke rise from burning leaves . . . Sensing closeness under a harvest moon in a wagon of hay.

Racing downhill on new snow . . . Advancing from beginners' tow to T-bar . . . Celebrating a winning game with a coke at Howard's.

Watching crocuses spring up in melting snow . . . Tasting the first frosted rootbeer of a new season.

Homecoming spirit breaks through.

Homecoming Becomes Fall's "Happening"

Grads get together over a glass of punch and talk about past experiences and future plans.

Couples dance to the psychedelic sounds of the Midwest Hallucination.

Snowball Brings Midwinter Sparkle

Flowers and flame for this formal foursome.

Glittering ornaments add to the gala affair.

1967 Homecoming Happening . . . A spirited crowd gathers around leaping flames . . . Cheers rise for the mighty Bulldogs as they battle the Concord Minutemen . . . Suspense grows as half-time activities begin . . . "Mardi Gras" melodies by the Marching Band herald the approach of sleek convertibles . . . Queen candidates and attendants arrive to closing strains of "Sweetheart of Sigma Chi" . . . From the loudspeaker comes the long-awaited announcement: "1967 Homecoming Queen Helen Popowzak" . . . Roses and tears reflect shared joy at her crowning . . . Warm sentiments linger as we welcome back our grads at the after game dance.

Holiday Snowball brings gaiety and sparkle . . . Jolly Santa delights everyone by handing out candy canes . . . dancing feet are shod in silver and gold . . . Couples swing to the beat of the Saharas . . . Whispered good nights say Merry Christmas.

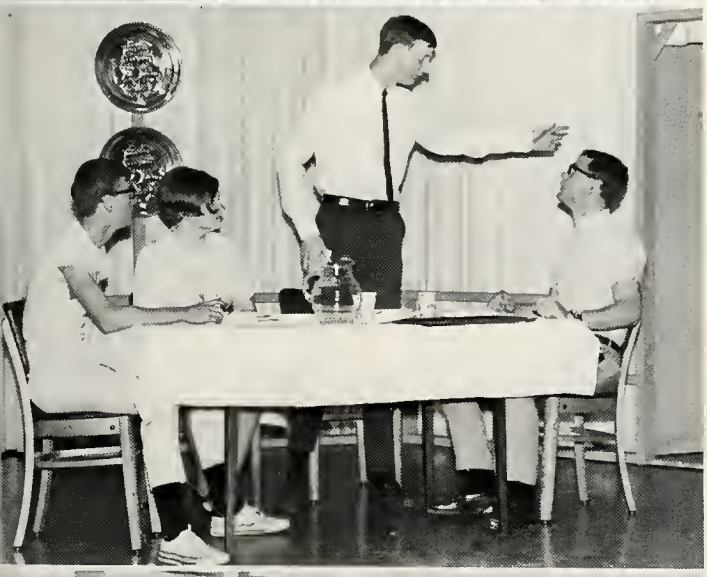
'Don't tell him it's diet punch!"

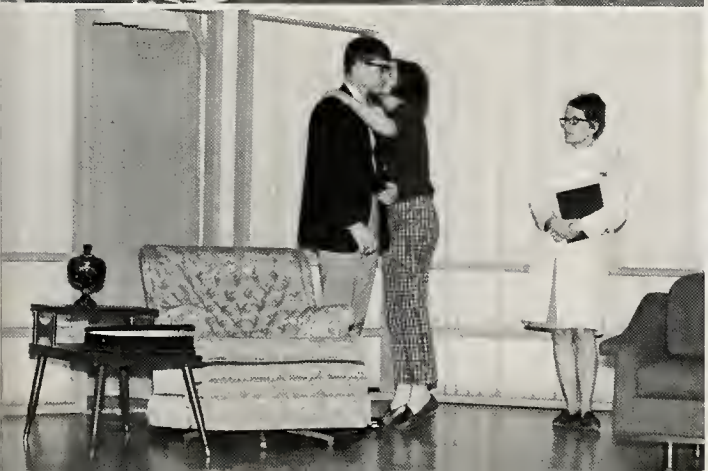
Sycamore Street Resounds with Thunder

Emerson Kanode is transformed into Joe Blake.

"Shut up--or else go back where you belong."

Cast and crew put forth time and effort to present THUNDER ON SYCAMORE STREET.





THUNDER ON SYCAMORE STREET . . . Tense tryout night . . . Cast and crew chosen . . . Endless rehearsals . . . Lines, lines and more lines . . . "Of course, it's none of MY business!" . . . "I'm going to have to start checking your reading material, young man!" . . . Dress rehearsal, grease paint, powder and pranks . . . Last minute assurance--"Break a leg" . . . Butterflies . . . Audience reactions . . . Sweet success . . . A fun-filled, post-play party at Howard's . . . A sycamore tree for a hard working director.

"Your glasses are clean. You wear 'em out--you have to buy a new pair."

Juniors Welcome Seniors to a Memorable

Prom goers enjoy tossed salad, roast turkey, baked potatoes, green beans, coffee and hard rolls.

"Dance to the Music"

"Eve of Fantasy"

Junior-Senior Prom, April 26, 1968 . . . Dashing through rain showers to pick up fragrant corsages . . . Awaiting a date's arrival with excitement . . . Smiling for the camera under clearing skies . . . Enjoying a delicious roast turkey dinner . . . Laughing with comedian-magician Jan Berkshire . . . Dancing beneath scenes of Cinderella and Snow White . . . Changing into casual clothes for a casual after-prom party . . . Sleeping through THE HAPPIEST MILLIONAIRE . . . Eating breakfast . . . Dreaming pleasant dreams.

Rose Kennedy pays an unexpected visit.

Couples view city lights from the Elkhart Hotel balcony.

Four-fifths of the Cambridge Five perform on percussion, guitar and sax.

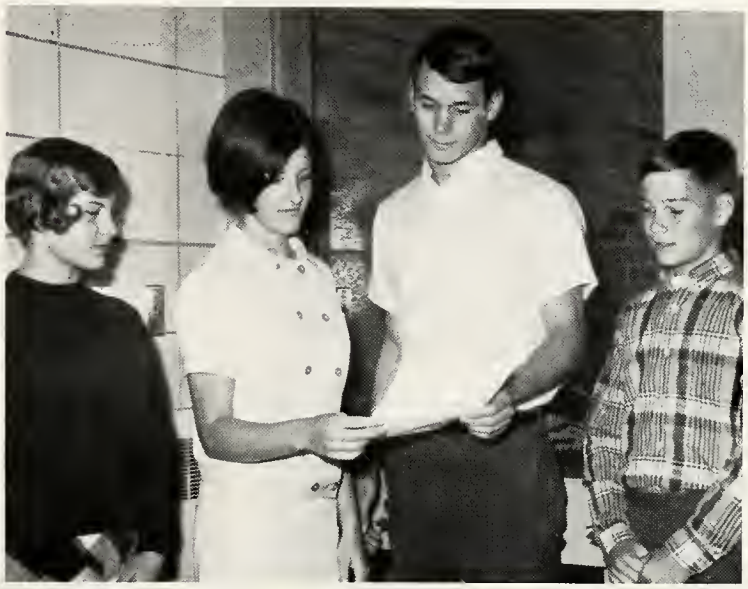
Salutatorian Jan Eichenberger; Co-valedictorians Howard Brumbaugh and Rose Mary Slabaugh.

Boys' and Girls' State Representatives Gene Zercher, Karen Forsythe, Debra Krou and Ray Clouse.

Outstanding Senior Athlete Steve Walters receives the blanket award for his record of over 50 letter points.

Recognition Is Given To Deserving Students

1968 Betty Crocker Homemaker Susan Cleveland.



American Legion Citizenship Award Winners Connie Burkholder, Jan Eichenberger, Steve Walters and John Maust.

Hi-Y Sportsmanship Award Winner Robert Waterson.

Graduation Farewells

Arriving for the important event are Sheri and Steve.

Commencement--Wednesday, May 22, 1968 . . . Class motto: "Where there is an open mind, there will always be a frontier." . . . Class colors: avacodo green and gold . . . Class flower: yellow Killian daisy . . . Searching for someone with a loose fitting cap . . . Trying to master the hesitation step . . . Feeling misty at the sound of "Pomp and Circumstance" . . . Hoping that your chair is in place . . . Discovering the purpose of education . . . Continuing to grow . . . Understanding ourselves . . . Finding a way to make a meaningful contribution in life.

"Yes, Tim, I believe you're parallel to the floor."

Mr. Borden R. Purcell speaks on "Choices You Make" at commencement exercises on a stage decorated with palms, pillars, ivy and the 1968 class flower, the yellow Killian daisy.

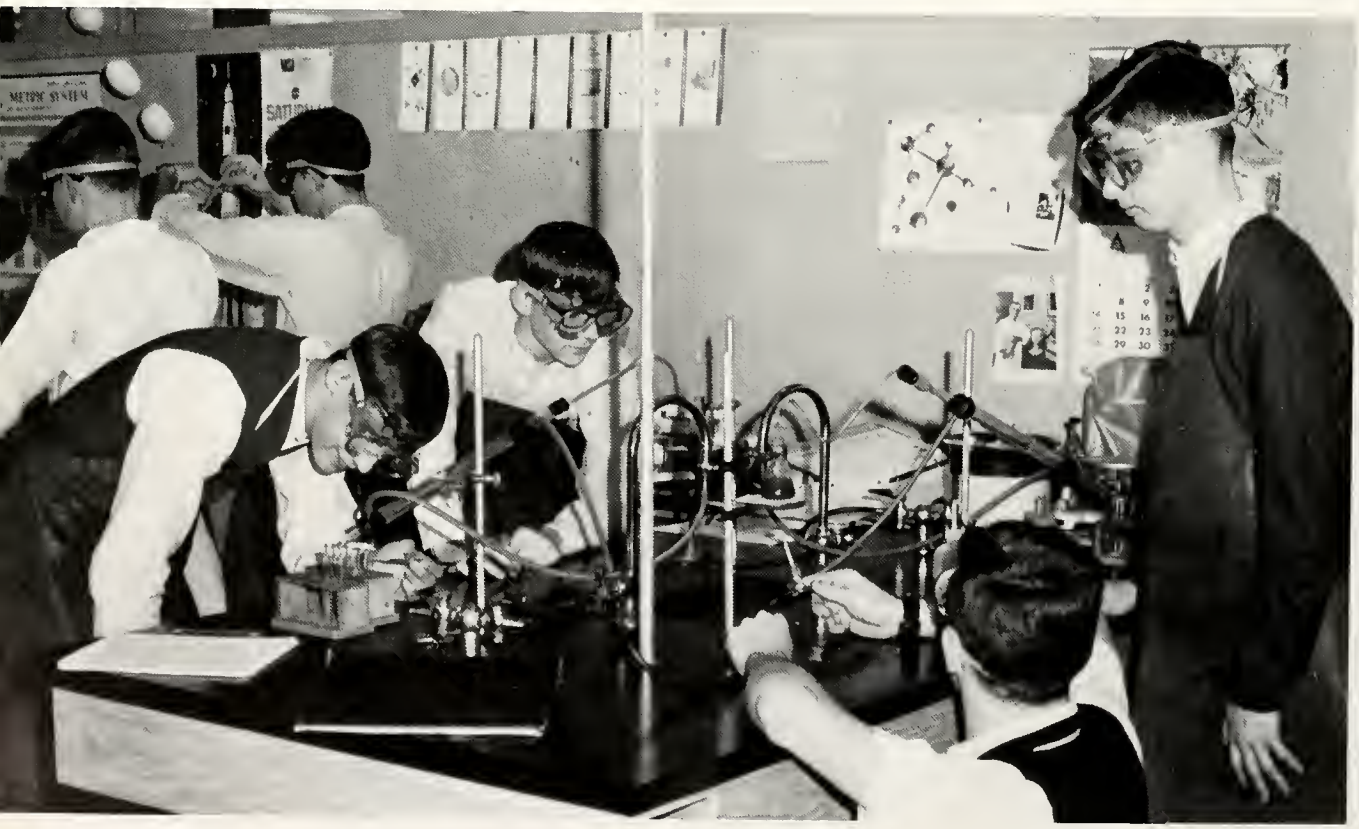
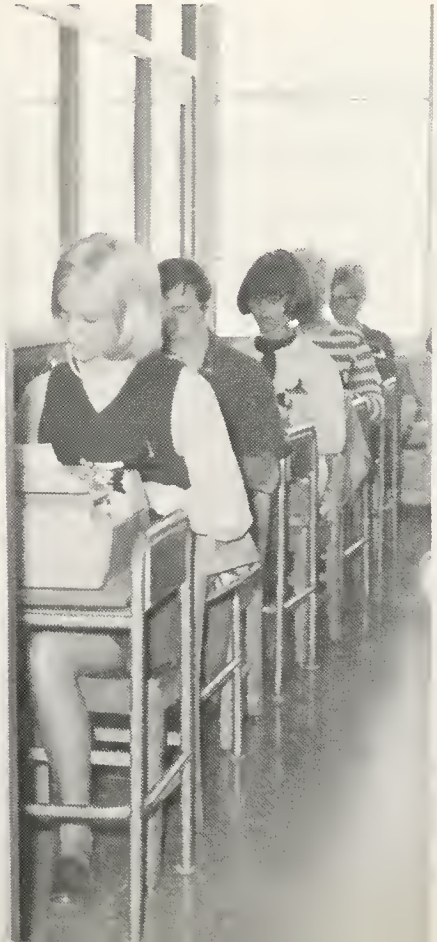
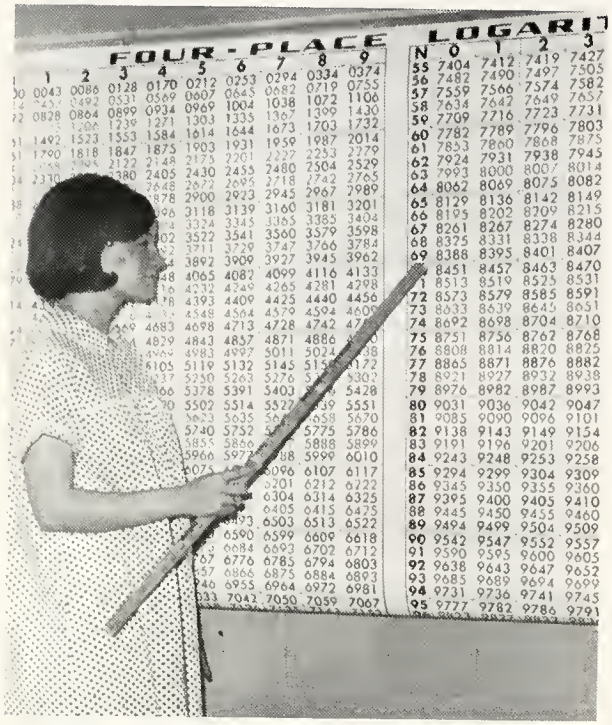
Solemn seniors remember past high school experiences and think about future plans.



Discovery of KNOWLEDGE



Discoveries in Mathematics and Science



Lana Chupp finds an answer on the complex logarithm chart.

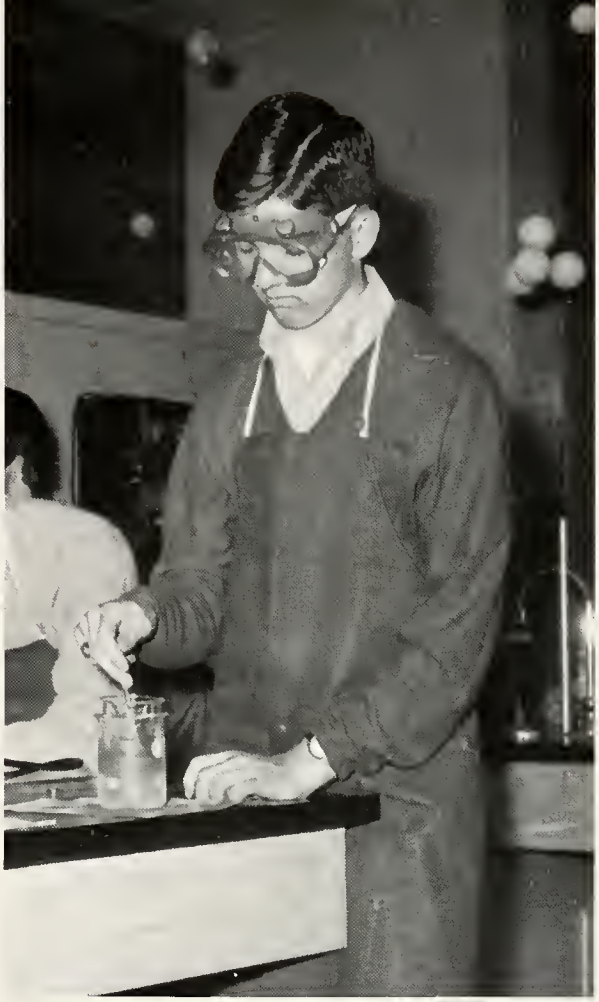
"Uh, hey, I'm a side short."

Many courses are available for math or science oriented students. Practical students may study general math. First year algebra students discover that the unknown value is not always easy to find. Proofs and problems are solved on the overhead projector in geometry. Advanced algebra is offered as a continuation of first year algebra. Senior advanced math includes the study of trigonometry, analytical geometry and solid geometry.

Students discover different aspects of several sciences in general and physical science. Three laboratory sciences are offered. Biology is a required sophomore course. Chemistry and physics may be taken by juniors and seniors.

Accuracy means a successful chemistry experiment.

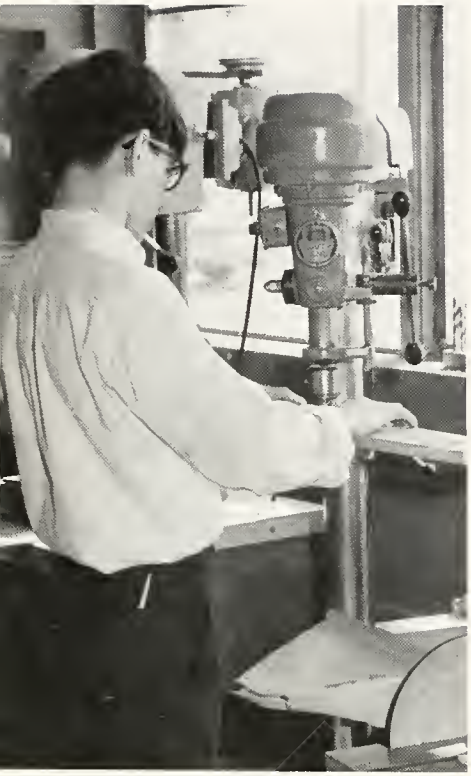
Shape Our World



A difficult physics lab is undertaken by Doug and Craig. Will it be another case of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde?

"I don't know . . . Are you sure we can get to the brain from the underneath side of this fish?"

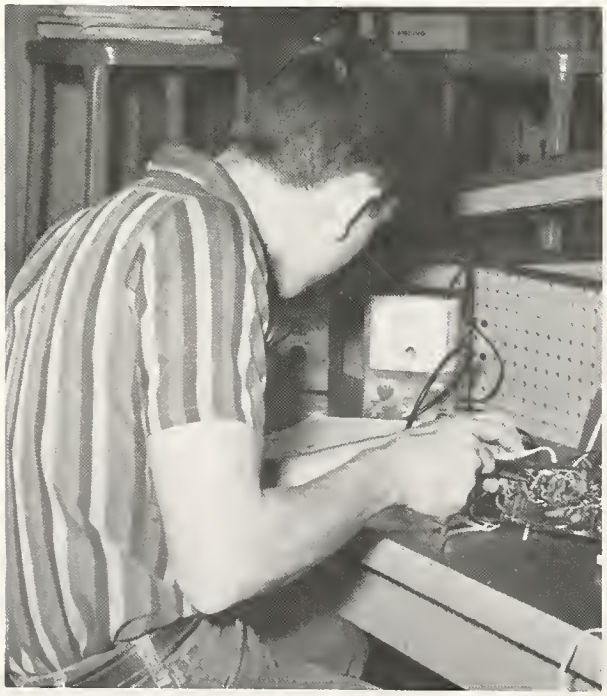
Manual Skills Aid in



Drill, ye tarrier, drill.

Just a little more work and this can be folded and put into the case.

"Hey, it works! It really works!"



With all this loving care the car should purr.

Discovery of Important Crafts

Manual skills are taught in several different shops. Boys learn the necessary art of drafting in mechanical drawing. In woodworking the difficulty of the various projects built is determined by the student's experience in the department.

Metal and machine shop students acquire knowledge in the use of machines. Advanced students made safety jacks, C-clamps and screw drivers as projects.

Boys in basic electricity learn the fundamentals of electricity. Projects completed by the two classes were electromagnets and electric motors. The more advanced electronics class also studies electricity. They built a tube commonly known as a transistor radio.

Building trades gives students an opportunity to learn carpentry skills. The boys gained experience by constructing the stage set for the senior play.

Students learn to service cars in auto shop. Most of the work is done on their own cars.

"How about it, you guys? Let's form a union."

Automation will never replace our industrious seniors.

Creativity Is

Only 350 more strokes.

Girls in home economics acquire skill in useful domestic arts. In the foods department they learn to prepare meals during their first three years. The sophomores completed their unit with a Thanksgiving turkey dinner. Neatness and cleanliness in the kitchen are stressed. The home nursing course includes care of older and handicapped people. Projects in the clothing department range from A-line skirts to spring formals.

First and second year art students work with design, pencil drawings and crafts including soap and wood carvings. Second year students visited the Scholastic Art Show in South Bend. Third and fourth year students approach art in the positive-negative style. In addition to painting in acrylics and working with clay, they studied commercial art.

"If I have to rip this again, I'll just die."

A little rind never hurt anyone.

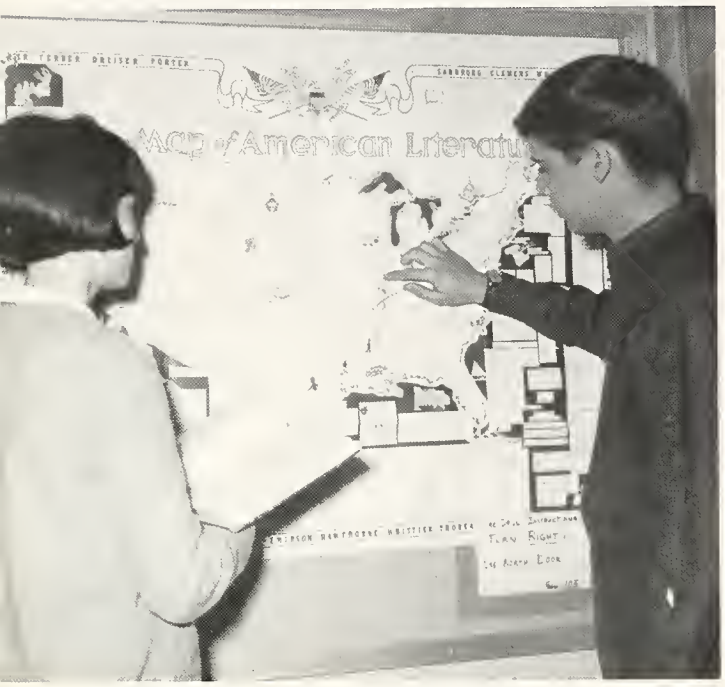
Inspired Through Home Economics and Art

Measure, measure, measure!

Isn't it strange what can develop from a mere board?

It's a bird. It's a plane. It's a . . . ?

Discovery of Values Through Literature

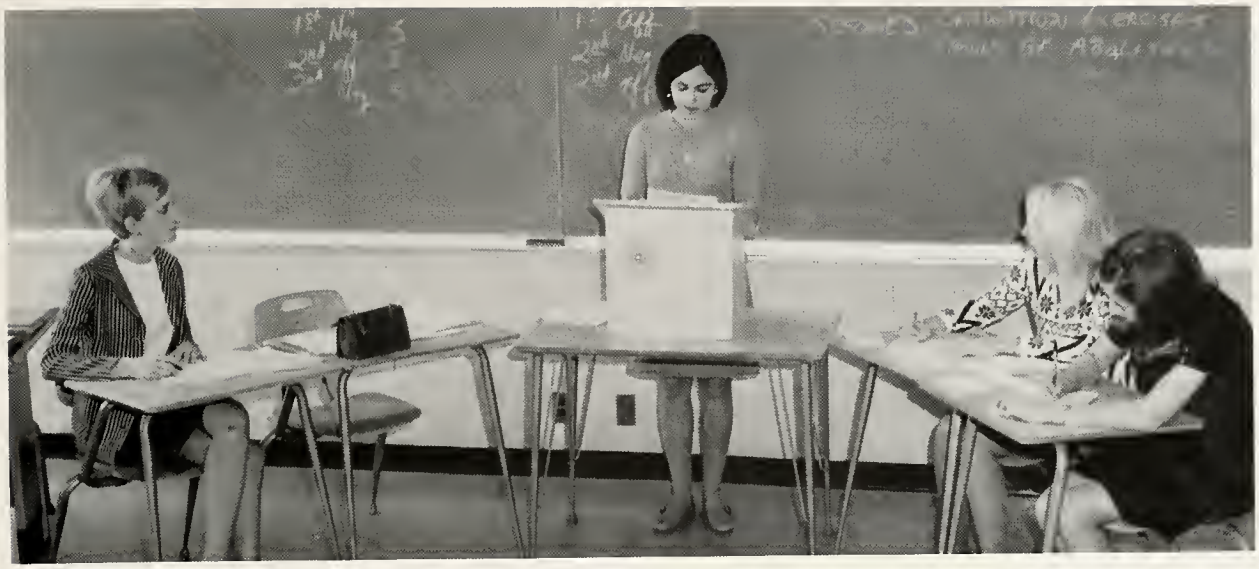


Discover America through literature.

The freshman's introduction to grammar and literature is supplemented with outside reading. A more intense grammar study composes sophomore English. The tenth grader also discovers different types of literature. After completing high school grammar, the junior studies American literature. A team teaching unit entitled "A Search for Values" was conducted in the first hour senior English literature and speech classes. Junior and senior English and speech students traveled to South Bend and Goshen to see Shakespeare's TAMING OF THE SHREW and THE CRUCIBLE by Arthur Miller.

Cindy Cripe sets out on a hunting expedition.

Group discussion promotes understanding.



Speech classes find that their debates rarely bring change in opinion.

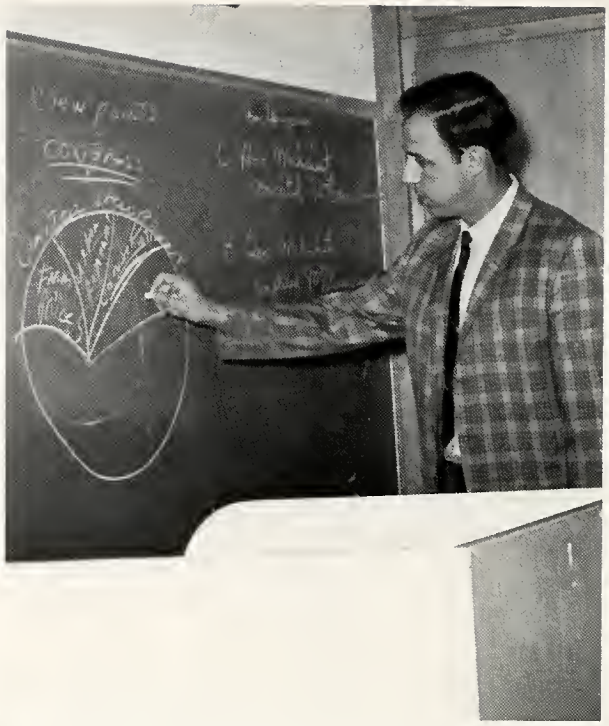
A CHRISTMAS CAROL Highlights Speech Class

Through individual speeches students practice the use of effective eye contact and gestures which aid informal speakers. To begin the drama unit the two classes gave a joint presentation of Charles Dickens' A CHRISTMAS CAROL for the school. Other studies dealt with group discussion, debate and oral interpretation. Recitals read from manuscripts concluded the interpretation unit.

"It's Christmas Day. I haven't missed it."

The Face Maker.

History of man provides interesting sophomore study.



"And now you see . . . don't you?"

Study of Humanity Brings Understanding of Today

"Hey! This is a LIBRARY. Let's not treat it like it's Grand Central Station!"

In the social studies department there are three required courses. In civics freshmen learn the responsibilities of being a citizen. In United States history juniors study the basis of our government and the building of our nation. This year outside reading was required in order to expand the student's knowledge of U.S. history and government. All seniors take government and economics. They study United States government in detail and learn basic principles of earning a living.

A highly recommended elective course for sophomores is world history. In this class students study the history of man from the stone age to the present.

Another interesting branch of social studies includes psychology and sociology. Psychology is the scientific study of human behavior. Man's relationship to society is studied in sociology.

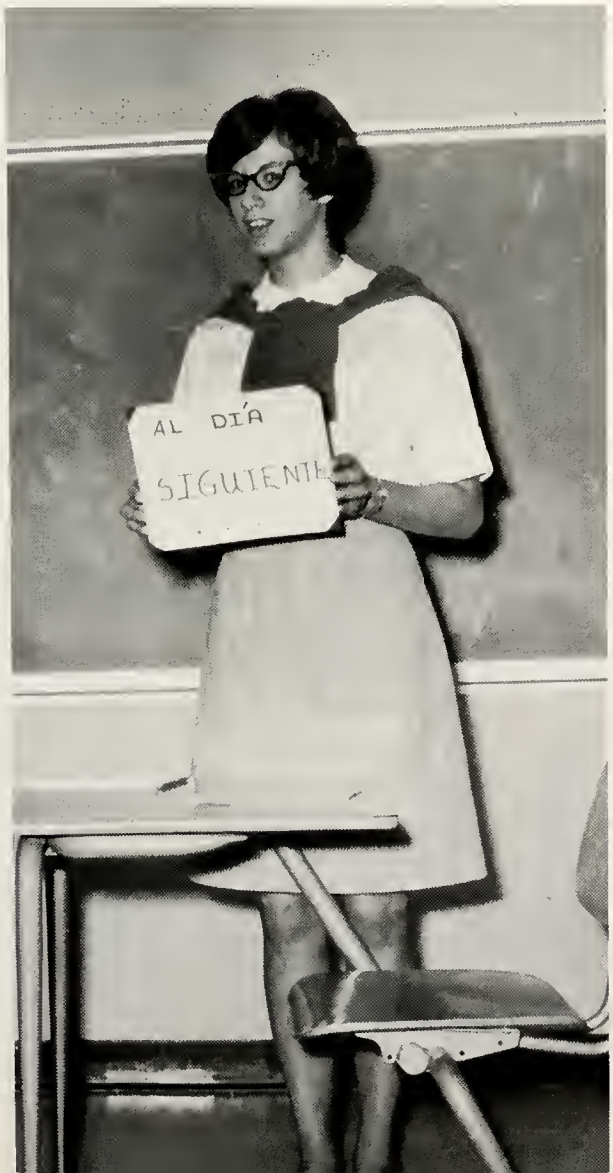
Otras Lenguas Son Importantes Tambien

For students who wish to expand their knowledge in language, courses in Latin and Spanish are offered.

First year Latin students add variety to their class by making projects. Steve Baker and Keith Strauss, both second year students, were chosen to attend the summer Indiana University Latin Institute.

A growing interest in Spanish has increased the need for classes. This year there was a class in session during all seven periods. Students learn to communicate in Spanish with others by practicing oral repetition.

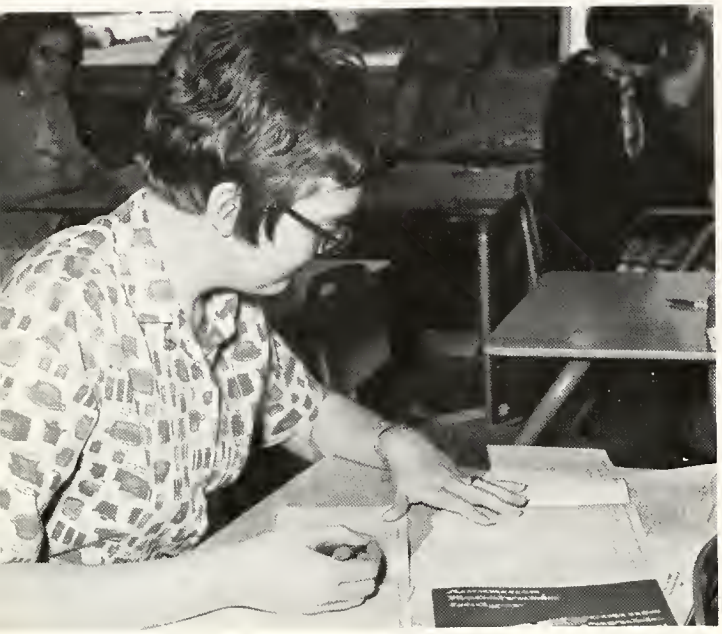
Fluency is perfected through individual speeches.



Joyce finds that U.S. events affect the whole world.

Hmmm . . . Rome's answer to the Rose Bowl?

Various Courses Emphasize Good Business Sense



"Acme Steel Products Co. really did well this year."

"Hmm . . . I must have added right for a change."

Developing business skills is a necessary factor to succeed in today's world. Learning to type is important since this skill is used almost daily. Students learn to file and to use dictaphones in office practice. Extra typing and mimeographing is done for the faculty by students taking business courses. Bookkeeping, accounting and shorthand courses are offered. Business English and business arithmetic are given for students interested in a business career.

Sometimes more time is spent correcting than typing.

Sue and Karen assist faculty by mimeographing test copies.

Third time's charm.

Students Discover New Careers in Agriculture

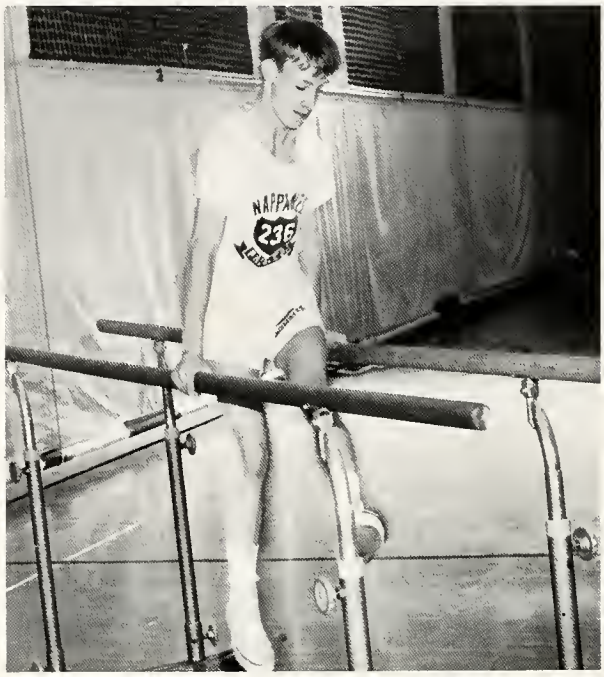
Agriculture courses stress the best methods of raising crops and livestock. This year for the first time one girl took this course. The soil judging teams placed third and fourth in the county. In February the class traveled to Burns Harbor, Indiana, to visit Bethlehem Steel.

"This one eats like a horse!"

Ag. boys erect an F.F.A. sign on Highway 19.

Exercise, Health and

"Now that I'm up here, how do I get down?"



There is someone who's been eating Cheerios.

Pow-Power.

Phys. ed. boys increase their endurance.

Safety Contribute to Our Well-Being

Physical education builds strong bodies. Students taste the excitement of all types of sports and games ranging from basketball to pool. Physical fitness tests help students discover their strong and weak points. The advanced girls phys. ed. class studied different types of dancing and presented several programs to various groups.

In health class general anatomy is studied. Also, the importance of good personal health and hygiene is stressed.

Sophomores must spend thirty hours in the driver's training car before they can receive their driver's permit. This experience is required in addition to classroom work in order to pass the course.

A good beginning . . .

"Wally, for a real problem consult your doctor."

always leads to . . .

Seniors Reach Final Stages of High School

The average member of the Class of '68 is a 5'7", 137 pound, industrious person. As a senior and upperclassman he finds many new responsibilities placed upon him both scholastically and in extra-curricular activities. Academic requirements are government and economics.

Class activities began in August of '67 with the taking of senior pictures. In early spring a committee was appointed to select graduation cards and announcements. After several of Mr. Carter's pep talks, the class managed to sell enough senior play tickets to pay for their yearbooks and cap and gown rental.

Juniors' Dome Rings Break Tradition

The members of the junior class begin to emerge as leaders in the school. The typical junior is identified by his distinctive dome ring with a blue set. He weighs 135 pounds and is 5'6" tall. He wears an expression of satisfaction concerning his participation in this year's successful magazine sale, a project which yielded $2,100 for the class treasury. United States history and English are required courses in the junior year.

Prom committees worked long hours planning invitations, programs and preparing decorations to complement the romantic theme of "An Eve of Fantasy." The juniors created an evening of delight for their senior guests.

Sophomores Begin To Make Their Mark

President Steve Baker, Vice-President Keith Strauss, Secretary-Treasurer Jean Zimmerman.

The tenth grade brings a year of security and fun. It is an "in-between" time when class members concern themselves mainly with the present. An initial year of valuable experience is behind them, and graduation still seems ages away. They do not as yet feel the strain of making decisions about college and lifetime occupations.

The 5' 5", 122 pound sophomore strives to master English and to explore the complexities of biology. In order to develop a healthy body he continues his participation in the physical education program.

Spring found the Class of '70 eagerly involved in the project of selecting class rings. Everyone awaits the arrival of the rings with anticipation.

Freshmen Enter into High School Life

President Dan Sheets, Vice-President Wendy Walters, Secretary-Treasurer Shirley Wise.

The average member of the Class of '71 is a 5' 3", 109-pound bundle of life. Many opportunities of high school unfold before him as he discovers his new existence in the high school world. He must learn to balance his time between school work and extracurricular activities. He keeps busy with his required courses of English, health, civics, algebra or general math, and physical education or band.

Eighth Graders Anticipate High School Years

President Tammy Sheets and Vice-President Roger Croy.

An eighth grader enters NHS looking forward with anticipation to the four years of high school ahead of him. He accepts the challenge of responsibility in his new environment. He has an opportunity not only to view high school life first hand but also to participate in student activities including Student Council, Jr. Y-Teens and Jr. Hi-Y. The 104 pound, thirteen year old radiates pure energy from his 5'1" frame. He participates in required courses of physical education, English, math, science and history.

Boys participating in basketball boasted a fine record of 12-4. Their 1968 season was highlighted by tying for first place in the eighth grade basketball conference.

The activities of the class of room 113 fill the individual needs of all its members. Each student learns the importance of getting along well with others--whether at school, work, or home. Emphasis is placed on the study of family finances and on learning to give clear directions, instructions and descriptions. Reading enjoyment is stimulated by selecting library books and reading them during leisure time. By use of the opaque projector the students discover books about vocations, health and sociability.

Field trips supplemented the class's activities this year. They visited a nearby museum, a hospital and several local businesses.

Creative arts are enjoyed by the students of room 113. Judy Boettger displays one of her pictures.

Completely absorbed in his work, John Hochstetler studies arithmetic.

The Bulldog diamond-men, coached by Tom Bradway, were much improved this year as their record indicates. Steve Walters was awarded the Most Valuable Player Award and Batting Trophy at the Fall Sports Banquet. Steve finished the year with a .288 batting average.

The Nappanee harriers were beset with numerous injuries and closed their season with a 5-11 record. Bob Waterson, a senior, received the Most Valuable Player Award. The Bulldogs finished 4th in the conference meet.

Bulldogs Enjoy Winning Campaign

Strategic plans prepare Bulldogs for action.

The Bulldogs boasted their seventh consecutive winning season this year. A preseason injury to Steve Walters gave the team a slow start. Midway through the season the Bulldogs were again hampered by Jim Parcell breaking his leg. The team rose to the challenge, however, and finished the season with a 14-8 record.

The highlight of the year was the Bulldog victory in the Holiday Tourney. They overtook Triton in the final game.

Nappanee defeated Jefferson in the Sectional Tourney, then suffered a loss to Penn, the Sectional champs.

The Bulldogs placed third in the Northern Lakes Conference with a 3-2 record. Steve Walters was named to the first All-Conference Team.

The B-team finished a rough season with a 6-14 record. The boys gained much valuable experience and are looking forward to an improved season next year.

Steve Walters was presented with the Most Valuable Player Award, and the Captain's Trophy went to Jim Parcell.

That's two sure points for Shaw.

Wrestling is rapidly becoming an established sport at Nappanee. Under the competent direction of Coach Svyantek and Coach Carter this year's grapplers showed improvement. Although the record was 1-9, the team proved they will have a very promising season next year. Nine out of eleven lettermen will be returning. Mike Mishler and Craig Middaugh finished the season with a total of 63.5 and 63 points respectively.

Racketmen Anticipate a Successful Season

Both the golf and tennis teams gained valuable experience in the spring. With a record of five wins and ten losses, the golf team is hoping for improvement in the coming season. Mike Cripe received the only golf award, the low average trophy, at the Spring Sports Banquet. Under the direction of Coach Lehman, the racketmen posted a record of four wins and seven losses. Senior Denny Miller was recognized for his fine effort during the year by being presented with the Most Valuable Player Award.

Intramurals

Intramurals proved to be a great success during the 1967-68 school year.

Boys' Intramural basketball was sponsored again this year by Mr. Gerber. Games were played every Wednesday night for nine weeks. Ed Stahley, a junior, led the scoring by averaging 27.5 points per game. Both the league title and the tournament championship went to the Celtics. The team was captained by Mike Denniston.

The Girls' Intramural bowling teams were under the guidance of Miss Weeks. The high game and high series were bowled by Becky Searfoss with scores of 199 and 395, respectively. Team number three, consisting of Jean Stahly, Kendra Middaugh, Melinda Newcomer, Marcia Stutzman and Dorretta Wiegand, finished at the top of the league.

Stage Band members perform at the Christmas concert.

NHS Pep Band arouses enthusiasm at pep sessions and home basketball games.

With each fall comes the football season and the half-time performances of the Marching Band. Diligent hours of practice went into this year's routines. The Symphonic Band presented two concerts, and its members were rewarded for their work with a trip to a Butler University concert. The Pep Band highlighted basketball games with a light, contemporary sound. The Dance Band received a first at contest. The Varsity Band also had a chance to display its skill by participating in district band contest.

1967-68 NHS choirs had an active year. Instead of a combined band and choir Christmas concert, the choirs gave one of their own. In addition to this concert they presented a "Spring Choral Variety" in May. The Concert Choir and Boys' Chorus had an opportunity to hear the Purdue Boys' Glee Club in the fall. Twelve seniors were awarded letters this year for taking three years of high school choir.

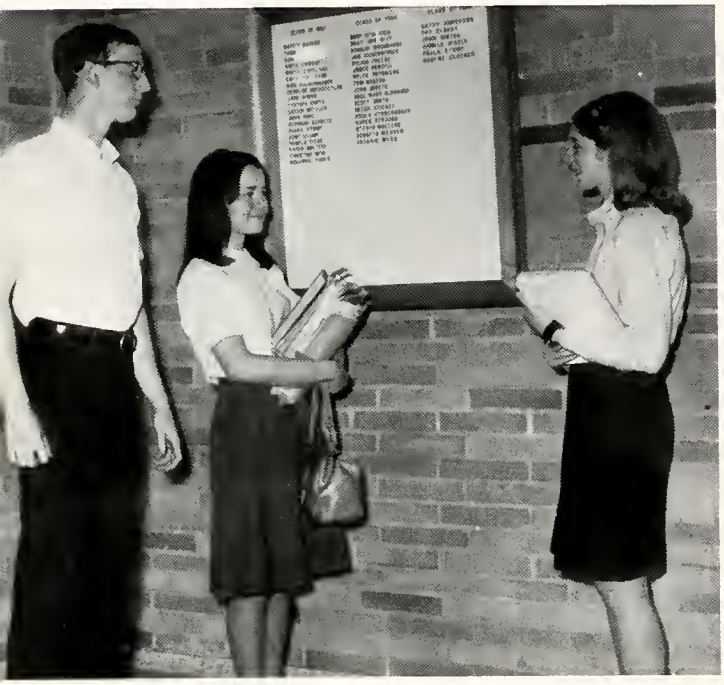
After many hours of struggling with headlines, copy and cutlines, the NAPANET staff viewed with satisfaction and a sense of accomplishment the finished edition. Long evenings are dedicated to the task of compiling a yearbook to give its readers a memorable account of the year's activities. Using the theme "Youth--a Time for DISCOVERY" the members of the staff sought to recapture and present the mood and spirit of the year 1968.

Every two weeks copies of the D'BULLDOG appear in the halls of NHS. Because the newspaper is published every other week, added effort is required in publication in order to present a more than adequate picture of student life. This year news, editorial, feature and sports editors were added to the staff to bring school and student closer together through the school newspaper.

D'BULLDOG Editors. Kathy Anderson, Nelda Stickel, Advisor Mr. Lichti, Production Manager Mr. Lehman.

National Honor Society and Student



President Howard Brumbaugh, Vice-President Helen Popowzak and Secretary-Treasurer Karen Strauss.

National Honor Society members are selected on the basis of scholarship, leadership, character and service. A total of 15 percent of each class is elected by a faculty committee.

Projects this year included up-dating the National Honor Society plaque and ushering at the Civic Theater productions. A spring reception was held on May 7 to initiate newly elected members.

Serving as a representative group of the student body, the Nappanee High School Student Council attempts to improve the school by suggesting changes in school policies.

Selecting assembly programs is one of the main projects of the organization. Others include sponsoring Homecoming, supervising election of Homecoming queen and attendants and organizing cheerleader elections. This year plans were made to send the president of the 1968-69 council to a student council summer workshop.

Following a code of ethics and maintaining a respectable reputation for himself, the club and the school is the responsibility of each N-Men member.

By earning a letter in any of several varsity sports, an athlete is eligible to become a member of the N-Men Club. In addition to this honor he is awarded an N-Men pin and is qualified to wear a sweater.

The club is active in many school activities including ushering at basketball games. As a money-making project the club sponsored a dance after a game. The highlight of the year was the annual N-Men picnic. Spring and fall sports banquets were held to give recognition to the athletes and coaches who devoted their time and effort to the development of the athletic program.

Numerous projects and activities contributed to a profitable year for the G.A.A. By successfully sponsoring a chili supper, paper drive, candy sale, and a dance, the G.A.A. girls found satisfaction in working with others. The club competed with other schools in several sports including basketball, volleyball, track and badminton. Highlighting the year was a trip to the Ice Capades in Fort Wayne. The G.A.A. uses a point system for awards and membership and provides an opportunity for participation in sports for all girls in high school. Awards are presented at the banquet in the spring. Skiing again provided a chance for members to develop skill as well as to discover a relatively new sport, and a gymnastics clinic gave members the chance to engage in another rewarding activity. Leprechaun Week followed by a sleepout in the gym added to the year of fun and profit for the G.A.A.

Through activity and social meetings the Future Homemakers of America learn to live more useful and satisfying lives. As projects the club prepared baskets for needy families and gave a party for young children. Through workshops and conferences officers learned the duties and goals of their club.

The "67" Farm Progress Show was the highlight of the year for the Future Farmers of America. As projects, the club sold seeds and participated in soil judging contests. Several members won awards on the local level, and a Parent and Son Banquet in the spring ended another successful year.

Today's Service and Tomorrow's Challenge

"To build a fellowship of girls devoted to the task of realizing our social goals and ideals" is the purpose of the Sr. Y-Teens. An initiation ceremony was held in the fall to install new officers and members. This year the club sponsored a Christmas cookie sale and a turnabout dance near Valentine's Day as money-making projects. Other high points of the year were a Christmas Banquet featuring a style show and a Father-Daughter Dessert. Interesting speakers provided a variety of programs for regular meetings.

The Jr. Y-Teens also enjoyed an active year. Activities included an initiation party, a caroling party at Christmas and a spring picnic. The club bought crutches for the school as a project.

Opportunities for Individual Growth

"To create, maintain, and extend throughout the home, school and community, high standards of Christian character." This pledge, repeated before each club meeting, instills in each member the high standards of the organization.

1967 Hi-Y boys had an active year. Both clubs took various trips and sponsored several worthwhile projects.

A trip to a hockey game at Fort Wayne and a baseball game in Chicago in the spring highlighted the year for the Sr. Hi-Y club members. The annual clothing drive was held for needy children and families. Club activities included sponsoring the coat check at basketball games and a dance after a game. At the end of the year citizenship and sportsmanship trophies were presented to the most deserving boys.

Jr. Hi-Y projects included sponsoring an eighth grade dance, a swimming party and a recreation night in the gym.
